

Urn Placement Options

Columbariums, ground burial, and the other resting places available for cremated remains at Washington Memorial Park.

SECTION 1

What Is a Columbarium?

Where an urn goes when it is placed above ground

A columbarium is a structure full of individual compartments, called niches, each one built to hold urns. It is one of the three ways to place cremated remains here. The other two are burying the urn in the ground and scattering.

Placement carries charges beyond the niche or garden space itself. The Cemetery Property Guide walks through the space, endowment care, opening and closing, and the rest.

Each niche is sealed with a granite or bronze faceplate that can be engraved with the name, dates, and a personal inscription. Every niche at Washington Memorial Park carries the right to place two urns. There is no separate single-urn niche here. The one exception is the Veterans Court of Honor, where each niche holds one.

Washington Memorial Park has six columbarium settings. They are shown below with what each one costs; you are welcome to walk any of them during park hours.

SECTION 2

Columbarium Locations

Six settings at Washington Memorial Park, and what each one costs

Every niche below holds two urns. Ranges are what is offered for sale today and move as spaces sell; the exact price of a specific niche is the one we confirm for you.

Garden of Meditation

OUTDOOR • GRANITE FRONT

Curved granite walls in an established garden near the chapel, with benches and mature planting around them.

NICHE PRICE RANGE

$5,995–$8,995

Rock of Ages Columbarium

OUTDOOR • GRANITE FRONT

A natural-stone courtyard built into the hillside. It is sheltered and quiet, and it looks out over the park.

NICHE PRICE RANGE

$7,995–$15,995

Mountain View Columbarium

INDOOR • GLASS FRONT

A glass-front island indoors, where the urn and a few keepsakes stay in view. Open and comfortable year round.

MOST NICHES HERE

$8,000–$16,000

Full range $7,000–$48,000

Radiance & Serenity

INDOOR · GLASS FRONT

Two indoor glass-front walls. Families set photographs and small keepsakes beside the urn, which makes these the most personal option here.

MOST NICHES HERE

$6,595–$9,895

Full range $2,195–$16,495

Terrace Garden Niches

OUTDOOR · GRANITE FRONT

A granite niche bank on the Terrace Garden Memorial Path, the newest part of the park.

NICHE PRICE RANGE

$12,000–$16,000

SCATTERING, RATHER THAN A NICHE

The Terrace Garden Ossuary is a shared scattering place with a granite memorial, not a columbarium niche.

Remains are placed together rather than kept in an urn. It is priced as a package on the scattering sheet: see the Scattering Garden guide.

SECTION 3

Ground Burial of an Urn

Two ways to do it, and what the urn itself has to be

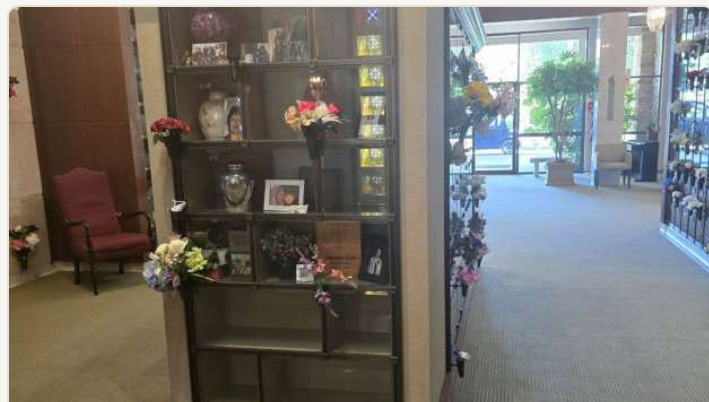

A standard grave space

ANYWHERE IN THE PARK · UP TO THREE URNS

An urn can go into an ordinary grave space in any section, and one space holds up to three. This is what families choose to be beside relatives already here.

PRICE DEPENDS ON THE SECTION

Eternal Light Columbarium

INDOOR · GLASS FRONT

Warm light, stone floors and a room to sit in. Openings run from a single niche up to a family-sized one.

MOST NICHES HERE

$17,595–$29,695

Full range $10,995–$82,500

Lake Urn Garden

BUILT FOR URN BURIAL · ONE URN PER SPACE

Spaces sized for cremated remains at the front of the park, beside the lake and the fountains. The more affordable of the two.

SPACE

$5,495

Both carry the same charges beyond the space itself: endowment care, opening and closing, the recording fee, and a flush marker quoted separately. Ask us to price the number of placements you have in mind.

WHAT THE URN ITSELF HAS TO BE

Anything buried in the ground has to survive being there. Either choice satisfies it:

- Put the urn inside an urn vault, a small outer container that protects it underground, so a wood or ceramic urn can still be buried. See the Burial Vault Guide.
- Or choose an urn rated for burial. The marble urns in the Cremation Guide and the Urn Catalog go straight into the ground.

SECTION 4

Choosing the Right Placement

The questions that usually decide it

Consideration	Columbarium Niche	Ground Burial
Permanent marker?	Yes, engraved faceplate	Yes, flush granite marker
Urn visible?	Glass-front option available	No, buried underground
Companion option?	Yes, every niche holds two urns	Yes, up to 3 urns in a standard space
Weather-protected?	Indoor options available	No, outdoor garden
A place to visit?	Yes, a dedicated location	Yes, a dedicated location

Most families want a specific place to visit. A niche and a ground space both give you that: somewhere permanent, with a name on it, that your family can come back to.

SECTION 5

Benefits of Urn Placement at WMP

What you get with a permanent place

- A Place to Visit

A permanent place with a name on it that family can visit.
- Sealed and Maintained

Niches are sealed and maintained. Ground spaces include endowment care in perpetuity.
- Companion Options

Couples can be placed together: every niche holds two urns, and a standard ground space takes up to three.
- Six Settings

Six columbarium settings, from hilltop views to glass-front indoor niches.
- A Name on It

Engraved faceplates or flush markers with names, dates, and inscriptions.
- You Can Plan Ahead

Arrange it now at today's prices, so your family isn't deciding this later.

I'm happy to walk you through each location in person and help you find the one that feels right. All urn placements include endowment care, so the grounds and facilities are maintained in perpetuity.
